Contemporary weaver and textile artist Karin Carlander creates hand-woven designs from her studio in Raadvad, Denmark. After studying the craft with renowned French weaver Jacqueline de la Baume at her studio in Provence, Carlander graduated as a textile designer from the Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts. In 2013, Carlander established her own brand, Textile No., which elevates functional objects used in everyday life. Made on a wooden hand-loom, each design brings traditional Nordic craftsmanship into a modern context.

Weaver and textile artist Karin Carlander interprets classic techniques as the backbone of her creative process. Two new designs – a rectangular rug woven from paper yarn and a fringed throw in alpaca wool – showcase this craftsmanship in contemporary pieces for private and public use.

For the Shuttle rug, Carlander decided upon paper yarn because of its crisp and delicate expression. Although challenging to work with, the inflexible plant-based material has its own personality and can withstand being dyed in colours.

Carlander utilises the paper yarn’s resilience by dying it in hues that bring attention to its unique texture.
